

Isle of Wight Council A-Level Consultation

Introduction

As part of the current education consultation, we want the views of young people on how best to provide high quality A-level provision.

Young people on the Isle of Wight have a good choice of programmes to follow after their GCSEs, including academic, technical and work-based courses. Broadly, technical and work-based programmes perform well across the island. However, we want to improve the performance of post-16 academic provision on the Island.

Currently there is a choice of seven A-level providers on the Island. You can study A-levels at any of the six secondary schools (Carisbrooke and Medina operate a joint sixth form) or at the Isle of Wight College. Some young people also choose to study off the island, or attend an independent school.

A number of options have been put forward:

- A - Retain the current pattern of A-level provision
- B - Establish a new sixth form college to replace the current A-level provision
- C - Establish a new sixth form college and retain one school sixth form
- D - Establish a new sixth form college and retain two school sixth forms
- E - Alternative proposals

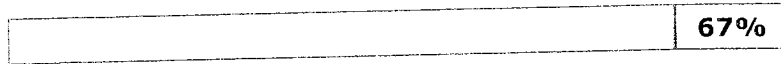

In order to inform the debate you are invited to complete the following questionnaire.
