2. Summary

2.1 The paper provides an update to the board on the work to redesign acute (hospital based services). It identifies the case for change, principles and approach to date and outlines plans for future community engagement as well as timelines for the formal governance and decision-making processes associated with this programme of work.

3. Decisions, recommendations and any options

3.1 The Board is asked to note the progress and timelines of the Acute Services Redesign work, and support the approach to continued community engagement.

3.2 Relevant information

All relevant information included in the paper.

4. Important considerations and implications

4.1 Legal

No implications

4.2 Finance

The challenging financial position across the Health and Care System forms a backdrop to this work and the affordability and sustainability of services represents one of the key criteria against which the future model for acute services will be assessed.

4.3 Equalities and Diversity

The council as a public body is required to meet its statutory obligations under the Equality Act 2010 to have due regard to eliminate unlawful discrimination, promote equal opportunities between people from different groups and to foster good relations between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it. The protected characteristics are: age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation.

No implications

4.4 Future Proofing / Exit strategy

No implications

4.5 Health, social care, children's services and public health and other partners who may be affected by the report

Whilst the redesign work has been clinically led, the input of all parts of the statutory system and the inter-dependencies between other community-based health and care services have been discussed as part of this programme of work.

4.6 Key PIs that will be monitored and why

The performance of the 12 acute specialty services forms a key part of the assessment, review and development of the future blueprint for Acute Services on the Island.
