The Assistant Director of Public Health advised the Board of the most up to date covid figures, there had been a slight rise in numbers of cases on the Island over the last 7 days. While there were continued positive cases being confirmed the increase rate was slowing. The highest number of cases were being seen in the 10–14-year-old age range and increased cases in 35–44-year-old age group which was believed to be parents.

The National Immunisation system shows that 87.3% Islanders had received the first dose of the vaccination and 80.8% had received their second dose, hospitalisations had stabilised after a period of decline. The Vaccination programme was still moving forward, and the booster programme was also being pushed out to those eligible.

Clusters in households were being seen and three clusters in care home settings in the previous seven days had been reported however this was lower than previous waves.

Questions were raised regarding the number of hospital admissions of pregnant or recently pregnant women who were advised not to have the vaccine, the IW NHS Trust had not seen the same pattern on the Island. The CCG advised that maternity numbers were not high however the impact on those women was significant and promotion of the vaccine was being undertaken.

Concern was raised regarding the communications around the booster vaccination scheme, it was asked how successful the booster vaccination programme had been. The Assistant Director of Public Health advised that it was early days for the booster programme and agreed communication was important and needed to be promoted in the right way.

The Board were advised that invites were still be issued regarding the vaccination scheme and information was being provided to people with reservations about having the vaccination to increase the number of people protected. It was noted that younger people were now eligible to receive their vaccinations, which on the Island was being rolled out well. Communication was being rolled out to all the over 50's regarding the booster vaccine.

It was noted that due to supply of the flu and Covid vaccinations it was not always possible to do both vaccinations at the same time, however it was important for people to have both.
